

DYNAMIC INTERNATIONAL PRESENTED SENSATIONAL ORNAMENTS ON THE RUNWAY AT THE INDIA INTERNATIONAL JEWELLERY WEEK 2012

August 19th, 2012, National: Launched in 1984 in Hong Kong and Japan by Ashu and Raja Malpani, the Dynamic International line of jewellery shown at the India International Jewellery Week 2012 was a perfect combination of natural and coloured diamonds.

Pioneers in creating sliced diamond jewellery; the company has used icy diamonds to create contemporary fashion. Inspired by nature, the company's collection also had touches of inspirations from Ashu Malpani's travels around the globe. The hand crafted jewellery in 18 K gold was created in Hong Kong and was a delight to behold.

The show opened with two graceful dancers, Sonia Jaffer and Vernon Enthiado who performed a modern contemporary dance; bringing to the ramp the beauty of nature and its glory, with their sensuous and artistic movements.

Presenting 20 outstanding entries in jewellery, the company highlighted the beauty of natural coloured diamonds. Each model glided down the ramp in jewellery that was a masterful work of craftsmanship.

The many eye catchers were the brooch featuring a bunch of flowers and ring with fancy coloured diamonds, the draped flowers icy white diamonds set and the single strand of four rough natural coloured diamonds on a glittering strand.

The necklace-cum-brooch, matching earring with slice cut and pear shaped diamonds on top and leaf design diamond marquise rose cut necklace were unbelievable in their beauty.

The Angola collection featured the floral brooch, bracelet and earrings in yellow, rose cut diamonds. The unique pendants-cum-brooches brought in a versatile use for the jewellery; while the only set with clusters of South Sea pearls from Japan and white diamonds was a unique entry. Two conjoined flower pendants in pink, grey and yellow diamonds made a grand set.

Finally super model, Binal Trivedi stopped the show in a magnificent giant brooch, ring and earrings made from slice diamonds into petalled flowers with a Colombian emerald in the centre set in rose gold, which was truly the piece de resistance of the show featuring a sensational collection.

The elegant and sophisticated gowns created by designer Gavin Miguel were a perfect complement for the gorgeous jewellery as the models floated down the catwalk.

When jewellery has that international touch then it has to be from Dynamic International, the company which is aware of what the global woman wants.
